Clarification Points for the Supply of Computers- FWA

S.No	Description	Our Comment	GRIDCo's Response
	Supply of Computers- FWA
1	Requirement	1. Headsets and Webcams: no quantities are shown in the Schedule of Requirements. Please confirm the quantity per year and the total, and whether headsets and webcams are counted separately or as sets. 2. Standard Laptops (45, 150, 50) and Desktops (15, 90, 20): please confirm the 2027 quantities are correct. 3. Printers and Photocopiers: please provide the quantity of each type per year, as only combined figures are given. Thank you for your assistance	a. The quantities for all the requirements are captured on page 62 of the Tendering Document. b. We confirm that the quantities for the Standard Laptops (45, 150, 50) and Desktops (15, 90, 20) are for the entire Framework period.
2	Price Schedule	We write to seek clarification on the pricing format. The ICT hardware market is currently very volatile: prices of processors, memory and storage change frequently because of global supply conditions and exchange-rate movements. Price changes over the life of a framework agreement are therefore unavoidable. In view of this, we kindly request confirmation of whether it is acceptable to submit: 1. Current Price - a firm price valid for the tender validity period, for immediate or first-call orders; and 2. Framework Agreement Price - a separate price schedule for call-off	This is a Framework Agreement to be implemented through a Mini Competition, and thus prices are not needed in the Primary Procurement. Tenderers are therefore not to submit prices for the items at this stage of the process. A call off would be issued to the shortlisted Tenderers to submit prices at the Secondary procurement stage through a Mini Competition process.

		orders over the framework period, with a clear price-review mechanism (for example, quarterly review linked to manufacturer price lists and the Bank of Ghana exchange rate). If this is acceptable, we would also appreciate guidance on the preferred format, and on whether both prices should be entered in the same Price Schedule or submitted as separate schedules.
